Ref. 61414

Sun orientation: south east

There is a net living area of 268 m2 plus terraces on a 919 m2 plot distributed over two floors.

The main house comprises two living areas, a kitchen, six bedrooms and one bathroom and a wonderful courtyard evocative of former times.

A separate annexe has additional living space.

The whole property is a piece of history with beautifully preserved architectural features such as sandstone arches, original fireplaces and pebble stone floors.

On the outside of the property, but attached to the house, there is an authentic oil press and a flour mill both of which have been well preserved. The large garden contains fruit trees and local shrubs and plants.

Parking space is available.

The property is located in the charming small town of Selva at the foot of the Tramuntana Mountains and ideally situated for lovers of hiking, trekking and cycling. It is quiet and peaceful and there are all the necessary amenities close by.

Palma and the international airport can be reached by car in 45 minutes. A short drive takes you to the beautiful beaches of the north coast of the island.
